QUITTE
A Coincident. Dr. Blanton After Four Years, Finds His C S A Button.

A few days ago Dr. Blanton received the following clipping:

Mr. W. J. McKiernan, Room 35, 120 Market street, Newark, N. J., writes of a silver enameled badge, having thirteen stars around the rim and a medallion of General Lee, recently come into his possession, and he wishes to restore it to the owner. On the reverse side of the badge is the following: "L. H. C. S. C. Confederate Association of Kentucky."

"The badge is very rare, if any time by writing for it."

Dr. Blanton wrote to the address named above and received the following letter:

Newark, N. J., Nov. 22, 1902.

Mr. L. H. Blanton,

Dear Sir—

"It gives me great pleasure to return your C. S. A. badge. A month or so ago a young nephew showed me the button proudly; he was wearing it on his jacket, and the medallion portrait of that great and good man, Gen. Lee, attracted my attention; and I examined the button more closely, and discovered your name upon it; I then wrote the Confederate Veteran.

I am an ardent lover of the South, and an admirer of Southerners, and I suppose it is that made think that the button meant something more than a mere piece of history to its owner.

I am pleased to let the members of returning it to you. My nephew (who is also my namesake) found it on the street in New York, some months ago.

Sincerely yours,

William J. McKiernan.

The button was given to Dr. Blanton by an old soldier several years ago, and there fore it is valued very highly.

It was lost on the streets of New York several years ago.

A young lady took some chickens into a Somersett store the other day, with their feet carefully tied and laid them on the counter. The merchant who bought them, fearing they would fall off to the floor, said: Will they lay there? Oh, no sir, she stammered blushingly, as we are all roosters, and now the merchant gets red in the face at the sight of a chicken.

The Greatest Dreams of beauty and glory is when nature has chosen her to be a mother. A woman is keenly conscious of the life-long affliction connecting with motherhood, and the innocent
one who sees that she shall be a sweet girl or a boy, and the innocent
one who sees that she shall be a
mother, — Yonkers Statesmen.

It is appalling to think of the temperations to which young mothers are exposed. We women should do what we can to lesson them.

I do my share. For the last five years I have made it an inflexible rule never to flirt except with married men.

Town Topics.

"I sell you, I'll be boss of my own house when I'm a man," said little Bennie.

"That's what your father thought when he was your boy," replied the boy's mother. — Yonkers Statesmen.
